

Olympus BX46 Microscope

The new BX46 was engineered from the ground-up with ergonomic and economic concerns in mind from the lowest stage height and most adjustable observation tube on the market, to the standard Olympus color-balanced LED. The new tilting, telescoping and lifting observation tube ensures that every user can adjust the microscope to suit their individual needs. This ergonomic flexibility helps the operator maintain a comfortable posture, especially beneficial for prolonged observation periods...Read More

