

BX51/BX51M upright inspection and research microscope

The BX51 offers a full product line-up for every purpose and even for special material science applications. Near infrared light observations are possible with the same microscope body and reflected light illuminator. The BX51 provides great system versatility. The BX51 microscope model offers reflected and transmitted light illumination, while the BX51M offers only reflected light illumination...Read More

